Passiontide

Prior to the revision of the liturgical calendar in 1969, Passiontide refers to the last two weeks of Lent, beginning on the Fifth Sunday of Lent and ending on Holy Saturday.

This period commemorates the increasing revelation of Christ's Divinity and His movement towards Jerusalem.

Under the older, two-week Passiontide, all statues and crosses in the church were veiled in purple on Passion Sunday (i.e., 5th Sunday of Lent) and remained covered until Easter Vigil night.
